

LEEP in 2019

The LEEP Institute's Meeting of International Excellence in Environmental and Resource Economics

What?

LEEP's inaugural conference, showcasing the very best research at the cutting of environmental and resource economics

Keynote speakers include:

Catherine Kling, Iowa State University, USA
Paul Ferraro, Johns Hopkins University, USA
Georgina Mace, University College London, UK
Ian Bateman, University of Exeter, UK
Graham Loomes, University of Warwick, UK
Brett Day, University of Exeter, UK
Christian Vossler, University of Tennessee, USA

When?

24th - 25th June 2019

Where?

LEEP Institute, University of Exeter, UK

Papers invited on:

Mechanism design and Payments for Ecosystem Services; Resource management; Applied behavioural economics; Non-market valuation; Spatial and temporal issues, and integrated modelling approaches; Economic insights to improve Government policy

Applications of a range of methods – including field and laboratory experiments, RCTs and applied econometrics – are encouraged

Applications open 21st January

Register your interest here

For more information visit <http://www.exeter.ac.uk/leep/leepin2019/> or email LEEP@exeter.ac.uk

