

Lectureship (assistant professorship) in One Health and Environmental Economics

University Of Glasgow, Scotland.

We have a new position available as a lecturer in One Health and Environmental Economics at the University Of Glasgow. We think of "One Health" as the intersection of ecosystem health, animal health and human health. The successful applicant will be based in the Institute of Health and Well-Being working with Professor Emma McIntosh, but will work closely with Nick Hanley as well. There are some teaching responsibilities in both global health and in environmental economics, but a major focus of the position is research.

The job advert is here:

<https://www.jobs.ac.uk/job/CEP140/lecturer-in-one-health-and-environmental-economics>

Closing date is April 5th, and the interviews are likely to be sometime in May.

You can contact me for more information: Nicholas.Hanley@glasgow.ac.uk

Nick Hanley

Institute of Biodiversity, Animal Health and Comparative Medicine

University Of Glasgow